Places to visit – Kirkwall

St Magnus Sails

The Cathedral is sited in the heart of Kirkwall and is a jewel in Orkney's heritage crown. It will feature two key elements of the cultural offer. Firstly, the incredible St Magnus Sails hanging from the pillars that flank the nave. This is a collaborative work made in 1993 for the St Magnus Festival by four painters and a poet. The installation comprises fourteen free-hanging sails, painted with images inspired by a series of one-line poems, specially written for the project by George Mackay Brown, on the theme of Earl Rognvald's epic voyage to Jerusalem in 1151.

Musical Composition of Brian Cromarty

Alongside and informing this visual tour de force is the musical composition of Brian Cromarty, commissioned by Orkney Islands Council specifically for this event.

Brian is particularly known nationally and internationally for his bands The Chair and Saltfishforty and is a regular on the folk scene. Using field recordings taken of sports activities around Orkney and the wider sounds of Orkney, Brian has created a soundtrack of Orkney to take advantage of the acoustics of the Cathedral to underpin the Island Games and the pleasure Orkney has found hosting it. The sound work will run throughout the week of the Games (except during services).

Spoken Writings

Brian has also worked in partnership with Gaby Barnby, the Island Gamers Scrivener and Storygatherer, to produce short sound bites from submitted writings gathered from all the islands participating in the Island Games in 2025. These are hosted on the Orkney Museum Service website.

These sound bites will be recorded onto small panels placed at the foot of the Cathedral pillars and can be activated by visitors in order to hear the accents, languages and dialects from around the world that are part of the Island Games family. Come along and have a listen!

Places to visit – Stromness

Stromness will host a range of Orkney 2025 events and feature a Street Gallery showcasing visual art and writing on the theme of the "Games" celebrating Orkney's creative culture.

Northlight Gallery, Graham Place

The Northlight Gallery will host The Moti Collective, a local collective of artists creating works that reflect the Island Games and the cultural life of Orkney.

This experience will also include the Sound Artist's composition, a second opportunity to hear it play.

Island Games Island Voices

The island voices project was launched on July 12th 2024 a year ahead of the Orkney 2025 Island Games. People from across our Island Games Communities were asked to submit writing, whether prose, poetry or song for a souvenir book that will be given to all participants and volunteers. Details about submission are available online and the new writing is also being showcased by Orkney Islands Council's culture service here: <https://orkneymuseums.co.uk/>

This exciting project invites individuals from all participating islands to write something about the special communities where they belong. The project seeks to understand a bit more deeply where a sense of belonging comes from, what it means to individuals, how it nurtures and sometimes how it divides.

Look out for the fantastic Orkney 2025 volunteer Haiku and Poems On the Go in facilities all around Orkney during the Games. These short, fun and wide-ranging poems show the humour, warmth of welcome and love of place that abounds in Orkney.

Water Sculpture

Local craftsman, Kevin Gauld was selected, after fierce competition to design the Orkney 2025 water sculpture. His innovative design will feature in the Opening Ceremony's Water Ceremony - a longstanding tradition that represents the coming together of the 24 island communities participating in the Games.

The water ceremony, which involves mixing waters from each of the participating islands, symbolises united and shared culture. Kevin's sculpture will be on display for the ceremony and will later be relocated to the Pickaquooy Centre as a permanent reminder of the Island Games and Orkney's role as host.

Meet our Mascot Ola!

Please welcome Ola the Orca as the Orkney 2025 official mascot!

Ola was the winning creation submitted by Sarah Sutcliffe, a pupil from Kirkwall Grammar School. The judging panel had a difficult decision after receiving 880 entries from children and young people across Orkney.

The mascot is a key part of the activity leading up to and during the Games week. Ola will be making appearances throughout the duration of the Games, so make sure you keep an eye out and please come and say hi if you spot Ola!
